

How Licensing Works

Ad Peeps offers two product lines to best serve you and your needs. The first is our flagship download PHP/MYSQL version of the software. The other is our Software As A Service (SaaS) which is remotely hosted by us for your convenience. Licensing refers to the download version of the software only.

We offer the PHP / MYSQL version of software to customers in the form of a usage license. A license is an authorization key that is granted per domain name and unlocks the software for use on that domain.

Can I show ads on multiple websites using one license?

Yes. You can place the html code on as many websites as you want. They will all be served from the registered domain installation. Additionally, you can setup target zones to segregate ads from appearing on sites you don't want or to appear in specific areas of your websites.

I am moving to a new domain, can I exchange licenses?

The license key is personalized and encrypted with your domain information and is validated independently by the software. In other words, your Ad Peeps software DOES NOT EVER contact us to verify if your license is valid or not.

This is an important design consideration because in the event our network is down, or we for some reason pack up and shut down, your software will still work as long as the domain name does not change.

As a result, we cannot issue a new license to you if you change domain names since we have no way of "shutting down" the license previously issued.

We encourage customers to purchase multiple licenses to support future properties. There is a discount as well when ordering multiple licenses.

How does the hosted product work?

With Ad Peeps Hosted, you pay a small fee for the service each month. You can paste the html code and show your ads on as many domains as you own. We offer various packages with increasing monthly impression limits to fit your business.

The hosted service has its core advantages as we manage the network, cover all storage and bandwidth charges, backup the software and your data regularly and ensure the system is available 24/7.

Need additional help?

You can contact us for general questions by visiting AdPeeps.com > Contact Us